NEWS RELEASE

New Outdoor Rink to Benefit Community

A new outdoor rink funded by private donors will offer an additional recreation venue for children of all ages in Kindersley.

The rink was just completed this week and is located on the edge of the asphalt parking lot beside McGowan Park. During winter months, it will be flooded to create an ice surface, and during other seasons it is suitable for rollerblading, road hockey and a variety of other outdoor rink sports.

The cost of all materials, including the boards, adjoining shack, construction and installation was covered by donations at no expense to the Town of Kindersley. The glass for the boards originated in the West Central Events Centre and is being repurposed for the outdoor rink.

In September 2012, resident Brett Sautner approached Council requesting permission to proceed with the project on the basis of securing donations and volunteers to build and maintain the rink.

Sautner says the intent was to provide another venue to match the existing outdoor rinks near Westberry School and by the Water Treatment Plant.

“It’s for the kids. They didn’t have anything on this side of town, and we wanted them to enjoy the same benefits.”

The Town of Kindersley thanks the donors who have contributed to this project and for their investment into our community.
